Short Description of the Organisation and the Faculty/Dept./School/Centre	Contemporary societies face major challenges around the inter-linked aims of democracy and security. Through its Democratic and Secure Societies Hub DCU brings considerable expertise in the most important aspects of these challenges, in particular in conflict resolution and post-conflict peacebuilding, in the relationship between media and democracy, in the importance of translation and inter-culturalism in contemporary society and in the role of education as a driver of social change and inclusion. DCU has led national and internationally funded research projects for research councils, the EU, policy-makers and NGOs. We are committed to working with policy communities, civil society and enterprises where we share common concerns in our areas of expertise.
